to the fiction at the turn of the 20th century emphasizes the 16th and 17th centuries when Chinese vernacular fiction flourished. In his novel "The True Story of Ah Q," Lu Xun explores the struggles of the Chinese people under the oppression of the Qing dynasty. "Red Sorghum," a novel by Mo Yan, offers a powerful depiction of the Chinese rural landscape and the complexities of Chinese society.

The course "Modern Chinese Fiction in Translation" examines modern Chinese literature in its historical contexts and examines its role in the nation-building process of modern China. Students read English translations of works that cover the primary literary genres and were created by major writers during this period. The course also explores the relationship between the re-making of Chinese religions and the making of a modern Chinese nation state.

Chw 4130 Readings in Chinese Literature explores pre-modern Chinese literary narrative from its beginnings through the seventeenth century. The emphasis will be laid on the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries when Chinese vernacular fiction flourished. The course also introduces traditional Chinese literature and contemporary Chinese literature as well as Chinese film.
