The big question is truth the same for everyone? Theme: Vocabulary - Bias. A definite leaning toward a certain point of view regardless of opposing facts.

One way to determine the author’s purpose or reason for writing a nonfiction work is to use background information that you already know about the author and topic for example knowing that an author grew up outside the United States might help you.

This English Language Arts Common Core video features first grade students from Milton Terrace North Elementary School located in Ballston Spa, NY. This lesson demonstrates focus standard Ri 1 1: ask and answer questions about key details in a text. The lesson also highlights ELA Common Core Instructional Shift 4: text-based answers, with fiction and nonfiction texts teachers may make use of other available resources to support instruction of TEKS reading and writing connection use the plot diagram to first map out the elements of a story then have students use the plot diagram as a prewriting tool to write their own imaginative story.
