Students create a new superhero and write a comic strip about the superhero. Objectives: Students explain the difference between a superhero and a hero, create a new superhero character, and develop a comic strip based on the new character.

Keywords: hero, superhero.

Materials needed: NA.

Lesson plan: Complete this activity in three lessons. Lesson 1, your students will find sequencing much more exciting when they add a comic flair to this activity. Plan your 60-minute lesson in English language arts or reading with helpful tips from Sarah Collins, Scholastic art magazine teams up with the center for cartoon studies (CCS) to make a hands-on comics classroom project for any age. Featured in this month's magazine read by teachers all over the nation is CCS's Make a Comic lesson plan with step-by-step instruction on how to turn one sheet of paper into an 8-page mini comic. Exploring comic strips, comic strips are a great way to encourage reading and writing and reinforce key story elements. Alter existing comic strips, give your students a creative experience altering the comic strip on the rocks. Change the dialog in a comic strip, create a new comic strip, fill in the beginning and end of comic strips.

Comic strip lesson plan: Students will practice writing skills in a fun and creative manner. They will create their own comic strip using the templates provided in this lesson plan. Other pages in this resource, create a how-to comic that explains how to do something, write a script for a comic that classmate will read and then draw that comic. Create a poetry comic.
