Insead was a transformative experience for me and interviewing candidates to attend Insead has been an exciting and rewarding way to give back. I know how important this process is for the school and the pool of extremely diverse and high calibre applicants makes the interviews dynamic and engaging. We would also like to thank the entire Insead community: students, learners, alumni, faculty, and staff for making this a success. It is an honour and privilege to report our accomplishments and to look forward to what the future holds. Insead is committed to developing the next generation of global leaders who will change the world grounded in our distinct values, vision, and ventures. This 250 million fundraising campaign strives to fortify our academic excellence, drive breakthrough innovation, and transform society on a global scale.

This really is going to be the final addition to this blog. I figured out talking about the post-Insead experience was part of the actual deal and that it may interest potential applicants. Before I started my MBA journey, many people were telling me that Insead life is intense and that I will have no other options but to learn to prioritise and say no to certain events, travels, and parties because it is just too much to combine with academics, career research, and sleep. Insead’s 10-month MBA format has proven to be a highly successful model; students appreciate the opportunity to gain their MBA degree in half the time, meaning a much lower overall cost and less foregone salary. The curriculum comprises five periods each lasting eight weeks and concluding with an exam, essay, or project.

Insead is a graduate business school with campuses in Europe (Fontainebleau, France), Asia, and the Middle East. The name Insead originated as an acronym of Institut d’Administration des Affaires (French for European Institute of Business Administration). Insead Professors have received five category awards in the 2018 EFMD Case Writing Competition, representing the most number of awards won by a single business school this year, making Insead the biggest overall winner.

Parfums Cacharel, a division of L’Oréal, used to have a dominating position on the European market with both the number one and number two best-selling fragrances, Anas Anas and Loulou. At the time of the case, however, sales were declining at a rate of 15% per year, and Cacharel was a fragrance brand in need of a major

That revelation was made by James Kang, assistant chief executive of the Infocomm Development Authority (IDA) at a press conference held on 5th April at Insead’s Asia campus in Singapore. The Insead Social Entrepreneurship Programme (ISEP) launched in 2006 is the global business education leader in this dynamic field by integrating cutting-edge theory and practice for impact business with the deep academic knowledge of Insead faculty and expert practitioners. ISEP has demonstrated the potential to create social and economic value through collaboration among entrepreneurs. The latest tweets from Insead include:

- "We bring together people, cultures, and ideas to develop responsible leaders who transform business and society. Europe, Asia, Middle East."
- "In 2017-2018, the Insead faculty and board approved the launch of the first new Insead degree since 2013: the new Master in Management (MiM). This is a one-year pre-experience programme that will expand our impact and reach in a growing market."
- "The MBA at Insead is filled with super talented and extremely intelligent individuals. By comparing yourself, you could only do yourself harm. This is of course relevant outside the MBA as well."
- "The Insead Summer programme gives the students the benefit of interacting with a diverse group of peers. They are at an age where meeting a diverse group of peers can change how you think about life and summer Insead is a great window to the world."
- "In the past, I used to do what wise organizational architects have always done, which is to pick one basis for grouping and reorganize every few years. But Insead's generous website space policies allow me to present all three, leaving the reader to decide on which basis they would like to see the papers grouped by methodology, by concept, or by methodology and concept."
