The Bible shows that humanity has suffered from discouragement and depression since the beginning. Depression can affect all people—small and great. Many Bible heroes such as David, Moses, Job, and Elijah dealt with it. What can we learn from their examples and biblical principles?

Question: What does the Bible say about depression? How can a Christian overcome depression?

Answer: Depression is a widespread condition affecting millions of people worldwide. Christians and non-Christians alike experience intense feelings of sadness, anger, hopelessness, fatigue, and a variety of other symptoms.

Fight the good fight of faith. Take hold of the eternal life to which you were called. (1 Timothy 6:12)

I have heard this scripture, sometimes used as motivating counsel for people struggling with depression, anxiety, and other life challenges. The premise is that life is a constant spiritual fight.

Is depression a sin? Or is it a picture of sin in our life? I answer that with an unequivocal no. Depression can in many instances have a physical cause. So can alcoholism and several other things spoken against in the Bible. Follow me closely here. The tendency toward depression or alcoholism is not a sin giving in to them. However, it is a sin, but we need to develop a biblical theology of emotions and weigh the world’s counsel by the scriptures. Many believers are defeated by depression and other negative emotions because they have not sought a biblical approach to dealing with these problems. The Bible says that we must discipline ourselves for the purpose of godliness. (1 Timothy 4:7)

So what does the Bible say about depression in biblical times? Life was full of tribulations and unexpected catastrophe, giving a good reason for people to experience depression and sadness. The Bible frequently discusses methods to deal with and overcome feeling depressed in the face of hardship and suffering.
