Chris Van Allsburg was born on June 18, 1949, in Grand Rapids, Michigan. He is an American author and illustrator known for his children's books. His picture book "Jumanji" inspired the 1995 film of the same name, which in turn led to the 1996 animated series and the 2017 film "Jumanji: Welcome to the Jungle". The enigmatic origins of the stranger that Farmer Bailey encounters while driving his truck and brings home to recuperate seem to have a mysterious relation to the weather. Chris Van Allsburg was formerly an instructor at the Rhode Island School of Design and lives in Rhode Island with his wife and family.

His work includes the book "The Polar Express" and the "Chronicues of Harris Burdick" series. He has won two Caldecott Medals during the 1980s. The story of the Bailey family and their unexpected visitor during one unusually long summer is the focus of the lesson plan for "The Stranger" by Chris Van Allsburg. This plan includes resources for reading, writing, discussion, and other activities to help students understand the story and improve their language arts skills.

The book "Zathura" is a sequel to "Jumanji" and features a game board that comes to life, adding another layer of surprise and mystery. Chris Van Allsburg's ability to seamlessly blend fantasy and reality through his narrative and illustrations has earned him the title of multiple Caldecott Medal winner. His work continues to inspire and captivate readers of all ages.
